Guidelines for submitting an article to Simmel Studies

Articles published in Simmel Studies are original articles, not yet published or considered for publication elsewhere.

Contributors may submit articles in English, and each article should be accompanied by a brief abstract (150 words) in English and the complete address of the author, including e-mail.

Authors should send their manuscript as email attachment to newsimmelstudies@gmail.com in format .rtf (readable with Word for Windows/Mac). Texts should be written with twelve sized Garamond and conform to the Simmel Studies' style. For all details, see our guidelines (http://www.simmelstudies.org/index.php/simmel_studies/about/submissions)

Articles will be double blind peer reviewed by members of the editorial board. Authors will receive confirmation of the appropriate reception of their articles and subsequently an evaluation form.
